Excerpt: . . . 7 In the past, we have heard testimony that this may have been the case in North Carolina, Georgia, New Mexico and New Jersey, all of which passed very restrictive laws aimed at so-called unfair lending practices. The practical effect was that most legitimate lenders ceased to make high-cost loans. Thus, many borrowers who failed to qualify for conventional loans ended up with no loans. Mr. Chairman, those who fail to learn the lessons of history are certainly condemned to repeat them. I need not remind my col-leagues on the committee that Americans currently enjoy the high-est rate of homeownership in the history of America. The benefits of free enterprise and competition have been plentiful. With the ad-vent of sub-prime lending, countless families have now had their first opportunity to buy a home or perhaps be given a second chance. The American dream should never be limited to the well-off or those consumers fortunate enough to have access to prime rate loans. In addressing...
