Excerpt: .one.who is looking for the Mendelization connected with form might And it in the fruits of the cross under consideration. Golden Queen-Mexico A, F3. In this cross, of which there were nine rows grown from as many selfed mother fruits (F2), several plants produced no fruits, and several with a few also grew to great size. The parental types were not adhered to and the fruits were intermediate, that is, not of the ratio of length to breadth of either the Queen or Mexico A, but at the same time showed great uniformity In the row. Certain rows, for example, were of tall plants, while others were certainly much shorter, thus suggesting that plant-size was a matter of inheritance. Just how this subject of the size of plant will appear after the records are studied remains to be determined. Three of the rows had all red fruits and four all yellow, but two of these were of different fruits of the same mother plant. Only two had both red and yellow fruited plants. Procopp s Giant-Cherry, Fa. This Is the union of a large, very long fruited species with a small, round type, and in this generation among the seven rows there was not one that had all the plants with strictly Cherry -llke fruits, while three rows had all the fruits long-pointed, however, of far less size than the Procopp s. The upper part of Plate IX shows a sample fruit each from...
