Not illustrated. 1901 Excerpt: .tin cans in which milk is carried, and the little pots for cream, were flung pellmell at the dairy door, with their linen-covered stoppers. The rags that were used to clean them, fluttered in the sunshine, riddled with holes, hanging to strings fastened to poles. The placid horse, of a breed known only to milk-women, had gone a few steps from the cart, and was standing in front of the stable, the door being shut. A goat was munching the shoots of a starved and dustv vine that clung to the cracked yellow wall of the house. A cat, squatting on the cream jars, was licking them over. The fowls, scared by Derville s approach, scuttered away screaming, and the watch-dog barked. And the man who decided the victory at Eylau is ro be found here! said Derville to himself, as his eyes took in at a glance the general effect of the squalid scene. The house had been left in charge of three little boys. One, who had climbed to the top of a cart loaded with hay, was pitching stones into the chimney of a neighbouring house, in the hope that they might fall into a saucepan; another was trying to get a pig into a carr by the back board, which rested on the ground; while the third, hanging on in front, was waiting till the pig had got into the cart, to hoist it by making the whole thing tilt. When Derville...
