POLICE REFORM AND EDUCATION. If Lord Curzon had done nothing else he would have earned the gratitude of India for his courage in taking up and grappling the question of Police reform. It is only the lower classes that know how heavily the hand of the law can oppress them and how those whose ostensible duty is to protect, can become their oppressors at almost every stage of their lives. For years it has been known that almost all the subordinate ranks of the Police were corrupt to the very core, and that no one could be safe from their depredations and extortions. It was not long before that Lord Curzon became convinced that it was not even necessary to place this department on the anvil in order to find out whether there was a flaw, and, if so, where. But in order to be sure of the extent of the evil, a most searching enquiry was made by a Commission which visited every part of India. Previous to the visit of the Commission local enquiries and reports had been made by District Committees especially appointed, so that in a way the ground had been prepared in each district. The unanimous report of this Commission revealed a state of things which took very few persons by surprise, and it speaks well for the moral courage of the members, most of whom were high officials, that they did not hesitate to speak...
