

DOWNLOAD

Omeros and Beloved through Wilson Harris's Cross-Cultural Imagination

By Hunte, Nicola

Book Condition: New. Publisher/Verlag: LAP Lambert Academic Publishing | Narratives of Loss and Redemption | This text offers a contribution to the large body of work that is dedicated to unraveling the significant ideas of the Caribbean thinker, Wilson Harris. This study applies his notion of a cross-cultural imagination to a comparative discussion of the literary treatment of the trauma of New World colonialism and slavery in Derek Walcott's Omeros and Toni Morrison's Beloved. Concerned with the themes and tropes of loss and remembrance, these narratives highlight Harris's focus on the flexible arcs and patterns of community that are possible within a cross-cultural awareness of human society's involvement with legacies of conquest. This reading uses the work of a Caribbean critical lens, with its acknowledgment of the heterogeneity of the Americas, to emphasize a redemptive poetics for the re-visioning of the postcolonial condition. The dialogue across Harris's, Morrison's and Walcott's work presents an alternative critical praxis for those interested in the development of Caribbean literary theory and of Caribbean and African-American literature in diaspora. | Format: Paperback | Language/Sprache: english | 404 gr | 220x150x15 mm | 292 pp.

READ ONLINE
[5.68 MB]

Reviews

Thorough manual for ebook fans. it had been writtern quite properly and valuable. It is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding, once you begin to read the book.

-- Dr. Catherine Wehner

Absolutely among the best book I have possibly go through. I have go through and that i am certain that i am going to gonna read through once again again in the future. I am just delighted to tell you that this is basically the finest book i have got go through within my personal existence and could be he finest book for ever.

-- Brian Bauch